ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW . . .

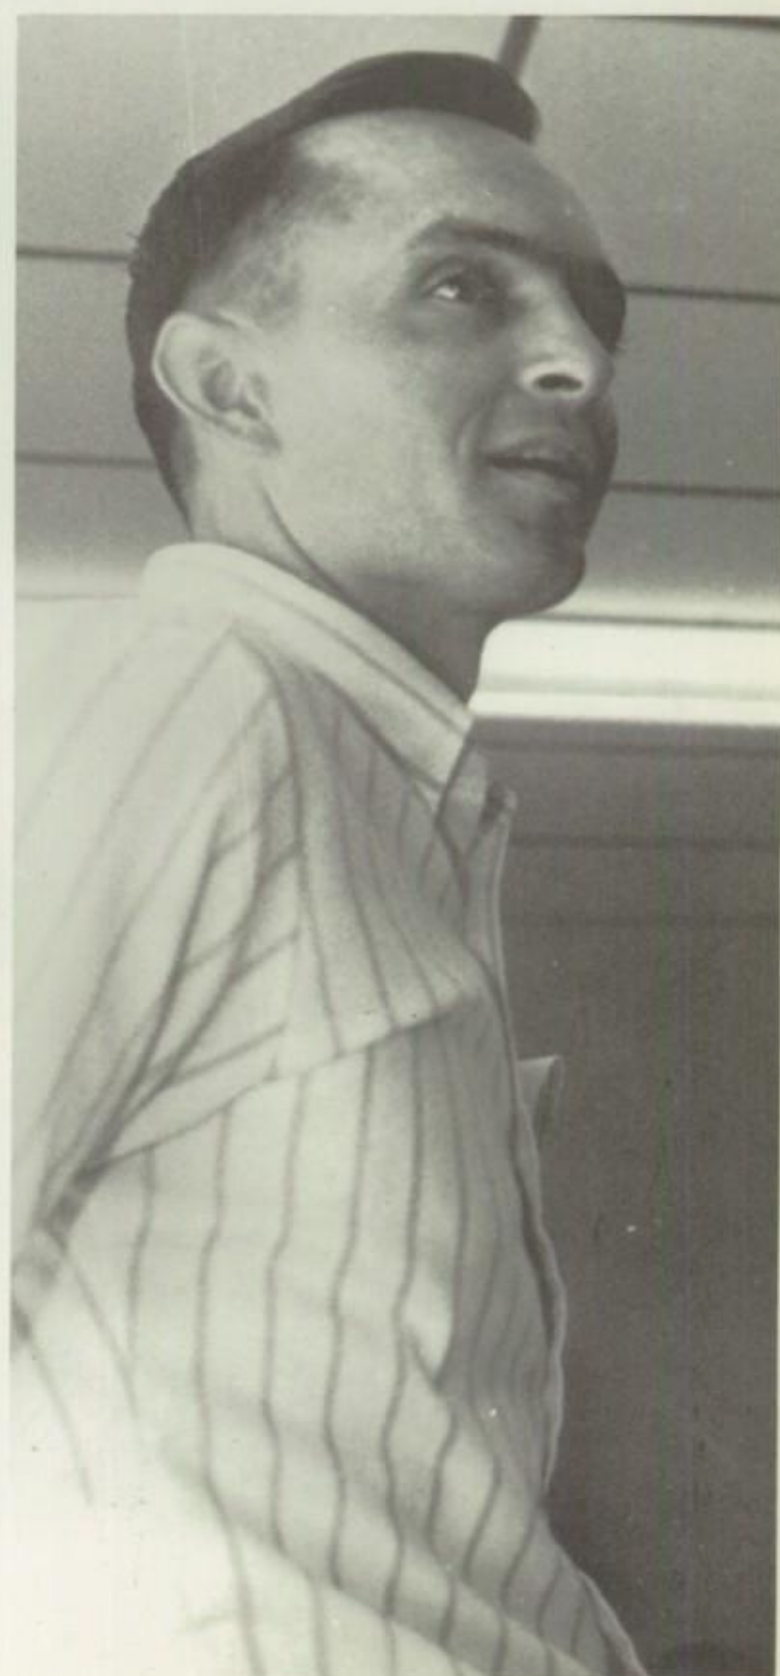

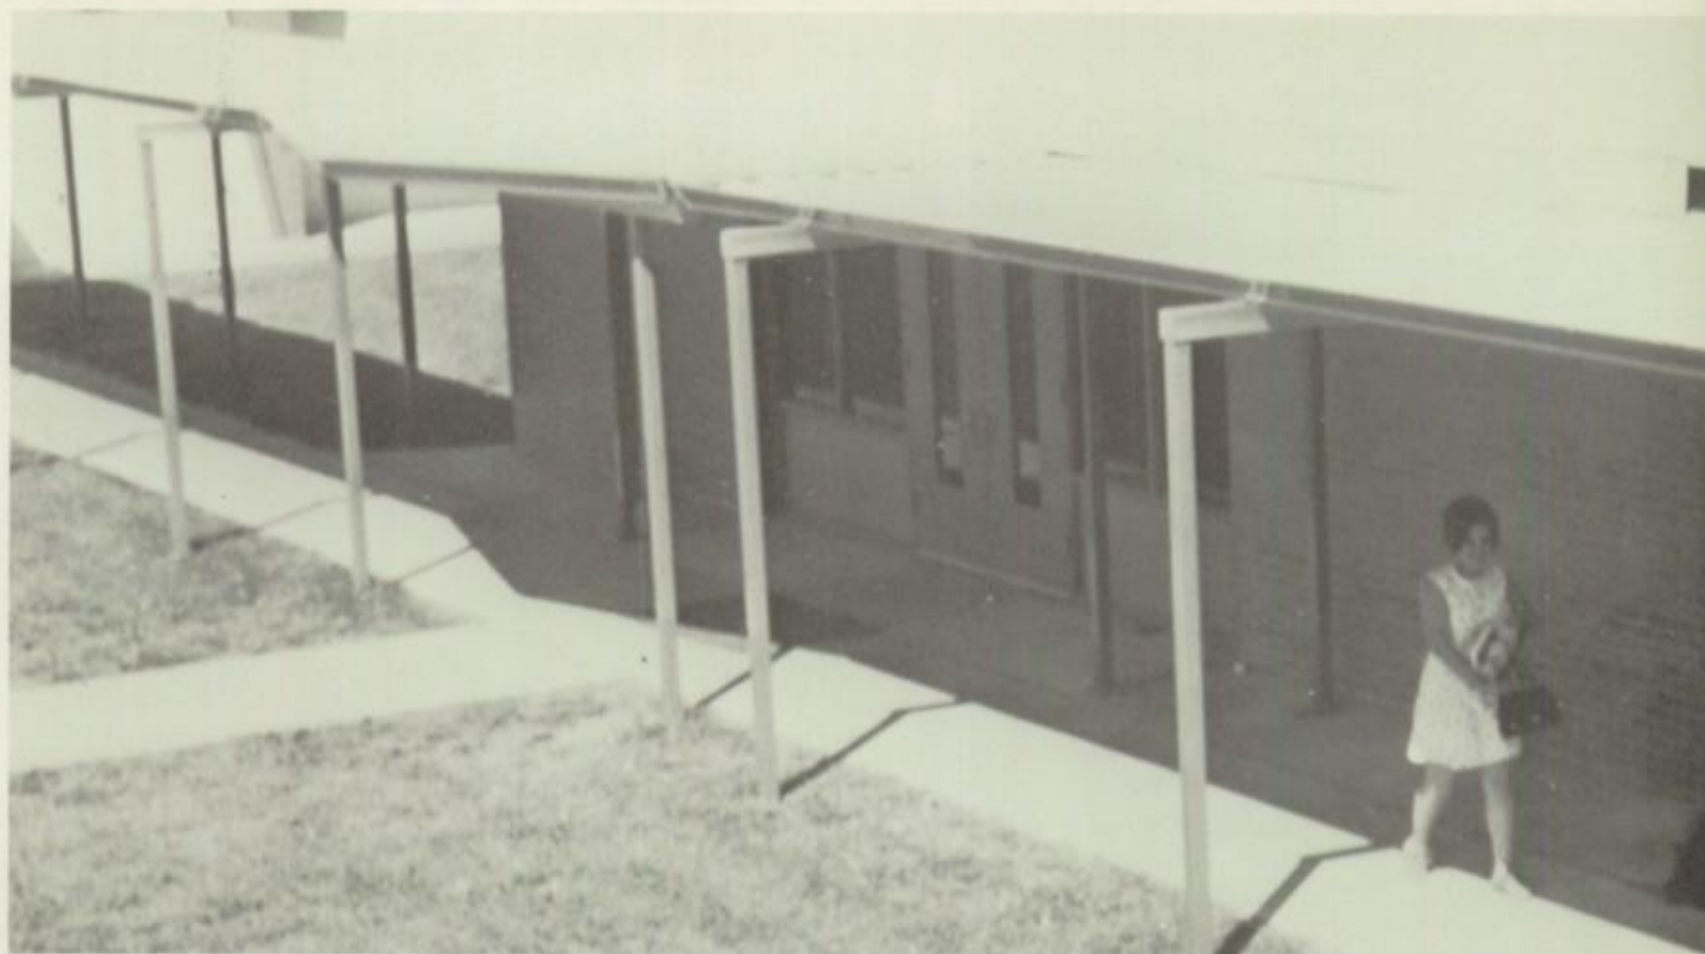

Here is a collection of ideas, a miscellany of pictures: these views are in no way remarkable — happy cheerleaders, a small boy reluctantly searching for knowledge, students leaving the Ponderosa in a late September sun. Casting their shadows on the hot sidewalks, they enter the buses and go toward another world.

Every student is an individual, thinking about and seeing events in his own way. Through his eyes — even familiar places can present a new range of vision —

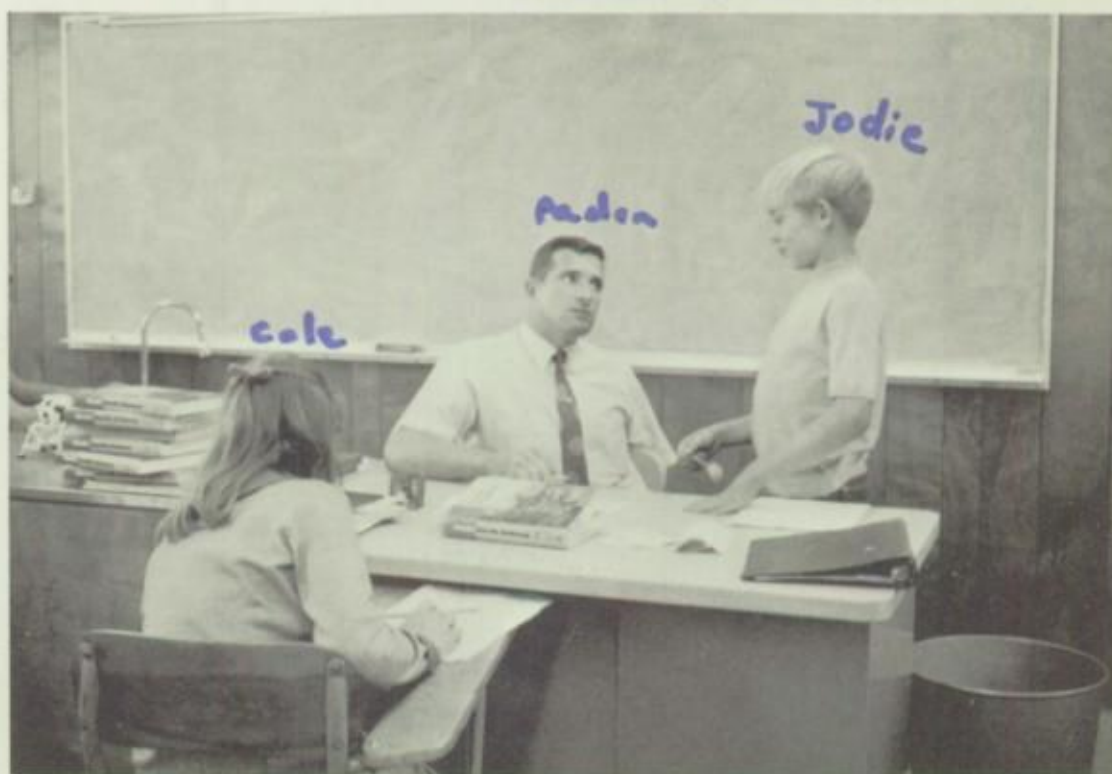

Life is a kaleidoscope
 Nothing remains the same
 Leaves fall and are swept away
 Snow brightens the winter scene
 With spring comes the flowers
 No two people are alike
 No two think the same thoughts
 What is life without —
 ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW.

EDUCATION

Administration

A voice of authority and a heart of compassion are the ingredients that make them our example, our leaders, and friends.

After fifteen years of service for the Bixby Public Schools, Mr. Arthur H. Ford, high school principal, has become an integral part of the system. "Whitey" received a high honor last summer upon being inducted into the Oklahoma Basketball Hall of Fame. He is presently serving as vice-president of the Oklahoma Board of Secondary School Activities.

Serving his third year as a capable administrator, Mr. C. E. Gray was responsible for the co-ordination of all divisions of the school system. He is genuine and sincere and practices the 3-F's - friendliness, firmness, and fairness. After twenty-five years in education, he has consideration for boys and girls. He is an avid sports fan.

Mr. Aubrey D. Westbrooks, assistant principal, is capable, firm, yet friendly. He has had experience as a teacher and administrator. His favorite pastime is riding his Honda.

Setting up policy for the Bixby Public School system is one of the responsibilities of the five member body known as the Board of Education. They are Mr. Howard Smith, secretary; Mr. Ray Bowen, member; Mr. Earl Harper, president; Mr. Leon Cowell, vice-president; Mr. Lyle Redding, member.

School secretaries, Mrs. Mary Hood, Mrs. Eloise Pregler, and Mrs. Helen Fenderson efficiently handled their many duties. Though usually behind the scenes, their competent presence was felt throughout the school.

Future Bright for Business Students

Offering a variety of courses, the department of business helped the professional world. Typewriting integrated speed, ability, and control of the machine. Secretarial practice combined filing, advanced typing and shorthand. Because every student must soon face the problem of "managing his own home," bookkeeping prepared him to keep a good set of books. Economics assisted the student to produce, consume, and compete in today's business world.

An endless chore of Mrs. Calkins is checking bookkeeping errors.

Georgia Gentry and Becky Davis get a mild shock as they connect an electric typewriter.

Joy Lee practices dictation in shorthand.

"Sock" in solitude. David Reeder types an assignment away from class.

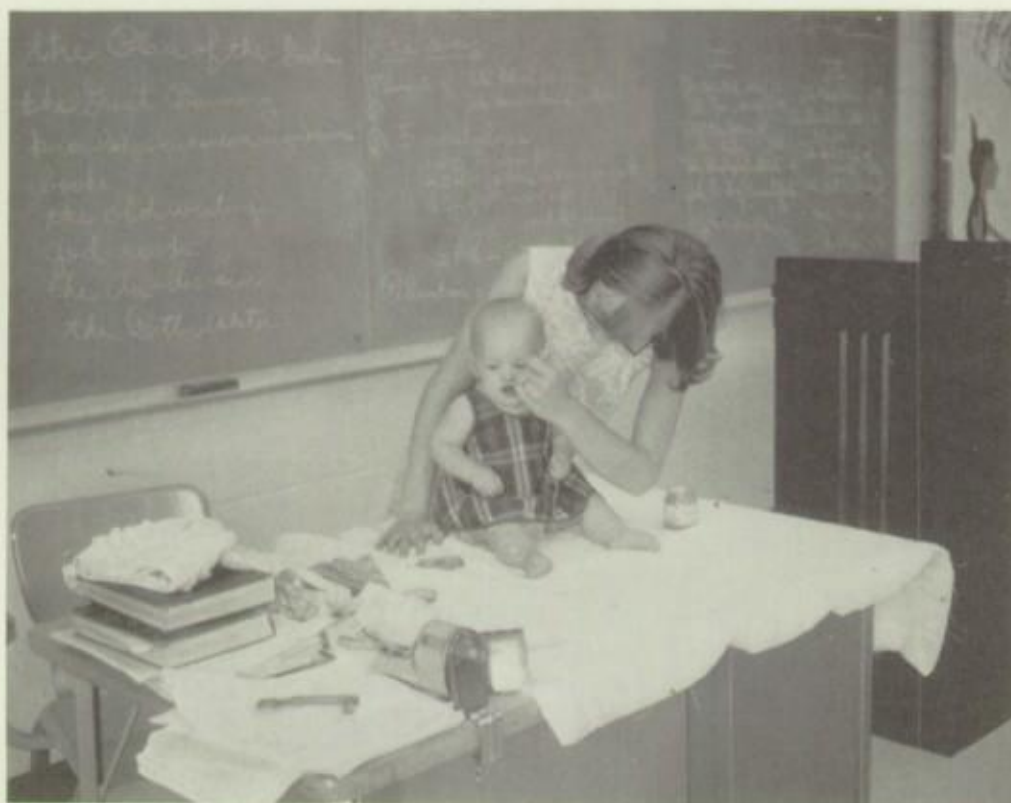

George Fisher and Roger Palmer find time for a little off-subject conversation.

From Podium to Stage

Patti Paul and Joan Dankbar show that speech demonstrations can be painful.

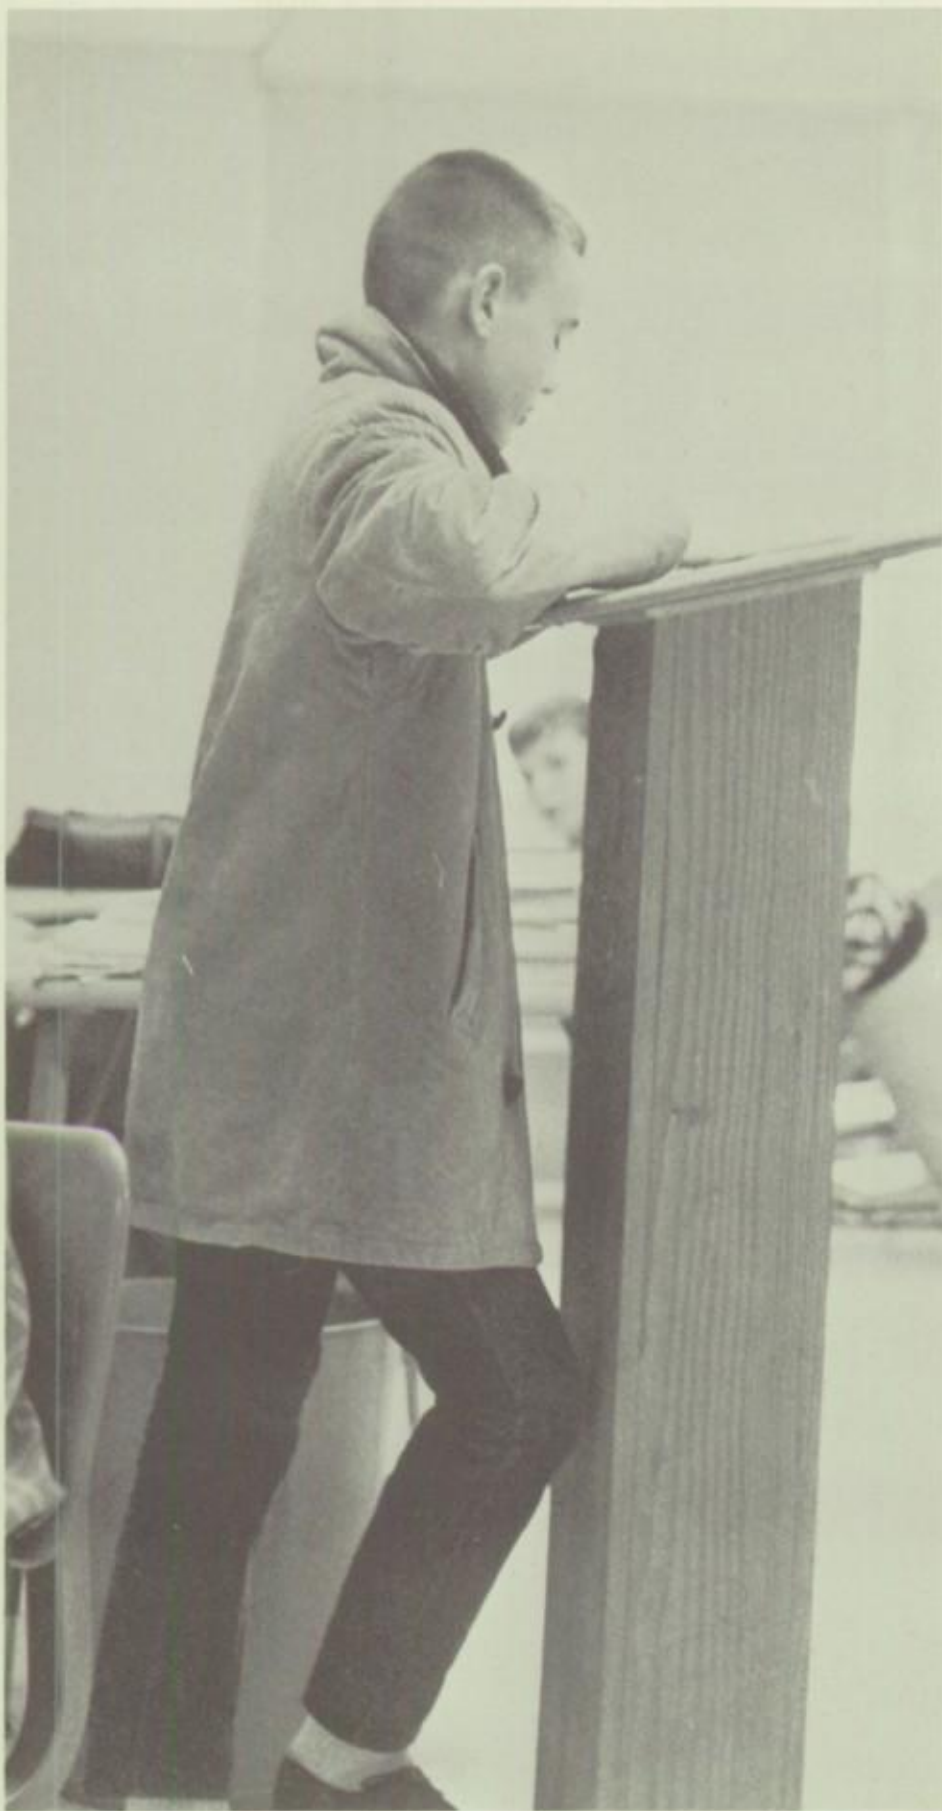

Elaine Allen gives a "show and tell" speech.

With communication in mind, this year's speech classes began with the bare fundamentals and set their goals to becoming polished public speakers. Interpretation and dramatics through the media of story telling and acting gave each student a chance to express himself.

"Fat Braz" alias Steve Braselton charms his audience.

Gary Lawhorn uses his best English in oral report.

English Vital to Knowledge

English teachers have strived for proper use of our native language. One of the biggest problems has been spicing up English, so students could not only learn, but also enjoy and appreciate it. Students have found that English consisted of more than grammar study and composition. Literature was vital to comprehension of English. Grammar and the basic rules of composition were continually reviewed because of their importance in everyday life.

English teachers pool methods in local meeting.

Mrs. Earsom holds interest of seventh graders in English class.

Social Studies Unlock Secrets of Past

Mrs. Stotts, "The Yellow Rose of Texas," lectures to world history class.

Mr. Hicks instructs from the colorful pages of Oklahoma History.

Learning to live in a changing world, students discussed current events, had political debates and expressed ideas on ways to run the government.

Lectures on the Civil War, ancient Greece, and the Five Civilized Tribes led to the rehashing of the War and the decision of who was right ... Custer or the Indians. Through these discussions students became more appreciative of how democracy works.

Brushing up on current events, sophomore Georgeanna Brown learns today's news is tomorrow's past.

Entender y Hablar

Beverly Lee and Toni Saffa rewind tapes for Spanish dialogue.

Spanish classes had the largest enrollment in the history of the department. Learning the language through four basic steps: listening, speaking, reading and writing prepared the students for a trip to Mexico. Dialogues displaying true to life events brought the use of the language to every student. Spanish I and II students dined at La Fiesta, Monterrey, and El Chico. Here they tried out their Spanish and feasted on enchiladas, tacos, guacamole salad, arroz, and hot sauce!!!

Linda Reed concentrates on Spanish dialogue.

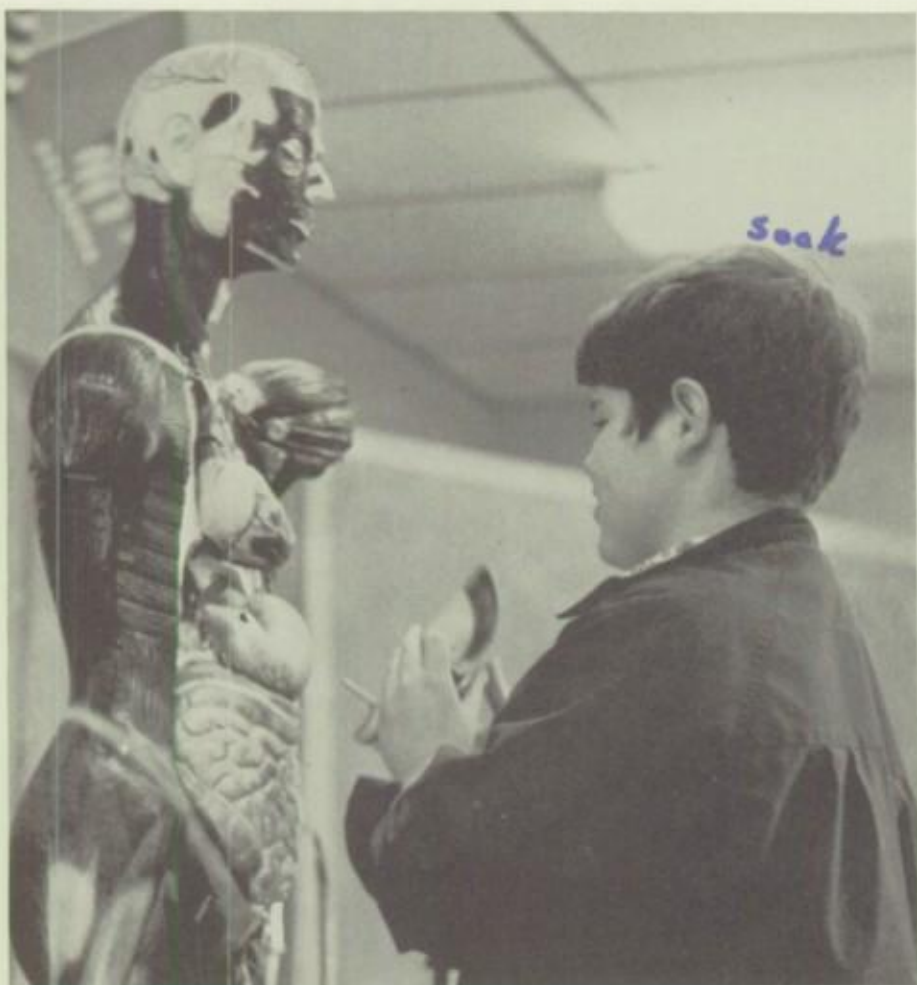

"Carmen," "Ana," "Maria," and "Alicia" try art in Spanish.

Math and Science: Key to Universe

Bixby's math department provided instruction in composite math, Algebra I and II, geometry, and trigonometry. These courses provided for student investigation of various mathematical theories, principles, and practices.

The science department offered instruction in both physical and biological sciences as well as in laboratory procedures and methods. Students had a choice of general science, biology, physiology, chemistry, and physics.

Alan Reeder does his own transplant in general science.

Karen Swartz concentrates on a math problem while Ron Jones gives the peace sign to Raymond Pregler and Dennis Metcalf.

Mike Griffin and Jack Brown experiment on their own. (Mr. Smith did not know!!)

Litho Prints Report Cards

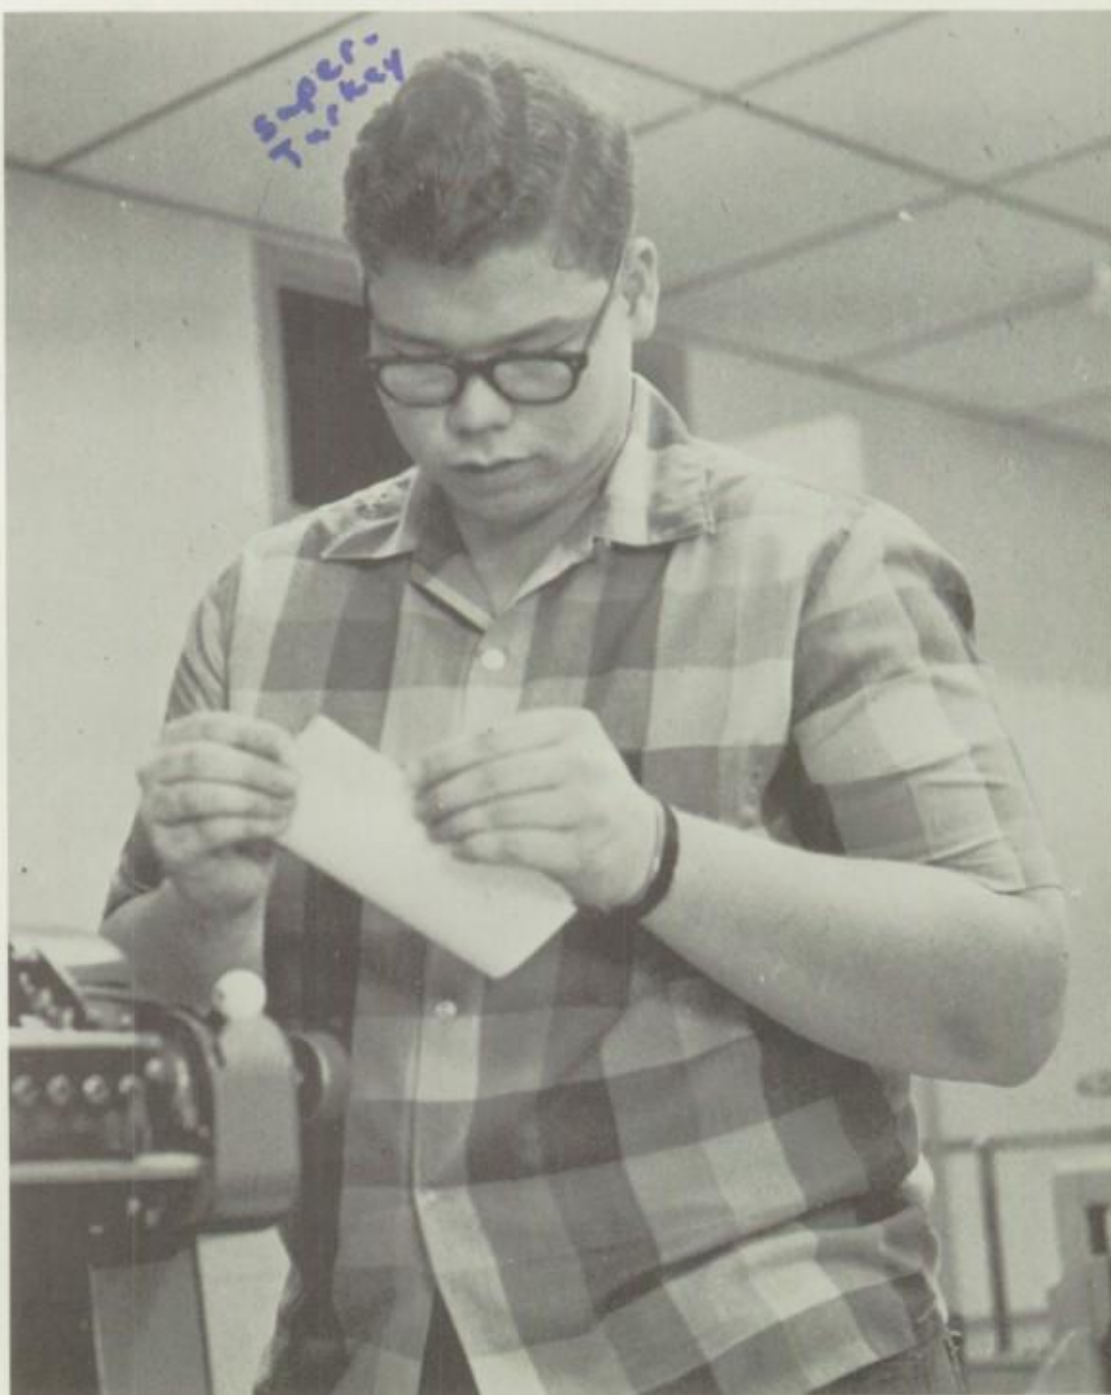

Senior Larry Weedon is a smooth operator.

Rick Partain finds that the critical eye can often find even the smallest mistake.

Lithography encouraged the creative spark and gave students an opportunity to learn new skills. Under the leadership of Bill Fultz, a select group of boys worked on printing projects for the school and private individuals. Football programs, school forms, athletic schedules, private calling cards and other large and small jobs were turned out.

Dwight Hyams tests for the center fold.

Neil Moore, Drafting II student, concentrates on next line.

Great Future in Drafting

The drafting department prepared students for an unlimited future in industry. Students found that a knowledge of practical geometry was needed. Scale drawing, sectional views and complete drawings were done with painstaking care. They also learned dimensioning, elementary sheet metal layouts and graphic solutions.

Gregg Wells correctly uses a compass while drawing a circle.

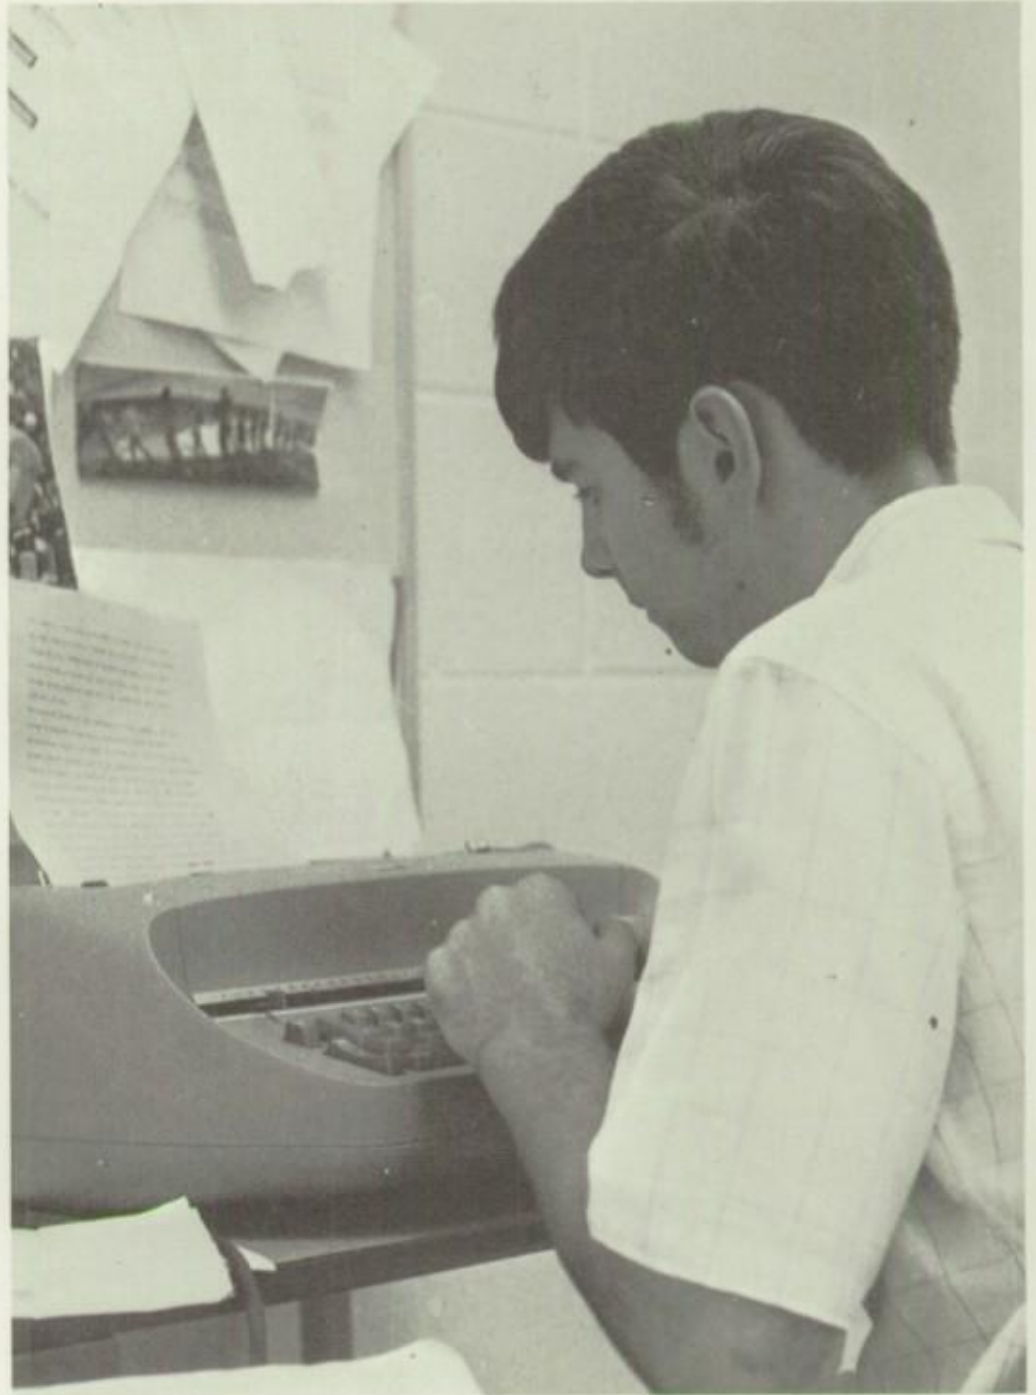

The first year of the Drafting III program broadens the technical knowledge of Raymond Pregler, Mike House, Larry Weedon, and Clifton Biggs.

Journalists Edit Spartans Speak Column and Spartan

Clayton Grayson, sports editor, pounds out his column and delights Bixby fans with his coverage of the last game.

Fifteen journalism students met their beats every week during the school year. Meeting the Wednesday deadline was often a hectic experience. Creating good public relations between the school and the public was an important role of the Spartans Speak Column, which appeared each Friday in the Bixby Bulletin. Good photo coverage, sports copy, school news, and features gave the class first hand experience in writing for the news media.

Fourth hour journalists were responsible for publication of the Spartan, senior and junior high yearbook, and the Little Spartan, an elementary memory book. The staff was proud of their "With Honors" award received at the O.I.P.A.

Cyndi Kelly, co-editor, Marcia Shaddox, proofreader and jack-of-all-trades, and Carol Brown, co-editor, work on individual pictures for the Little Spartan.

Debbie Stevenson, Paula Cox, David Reeder, Kathy Dowler, and Kathy Flake member of the Spartan staff, are searching for new ideas.

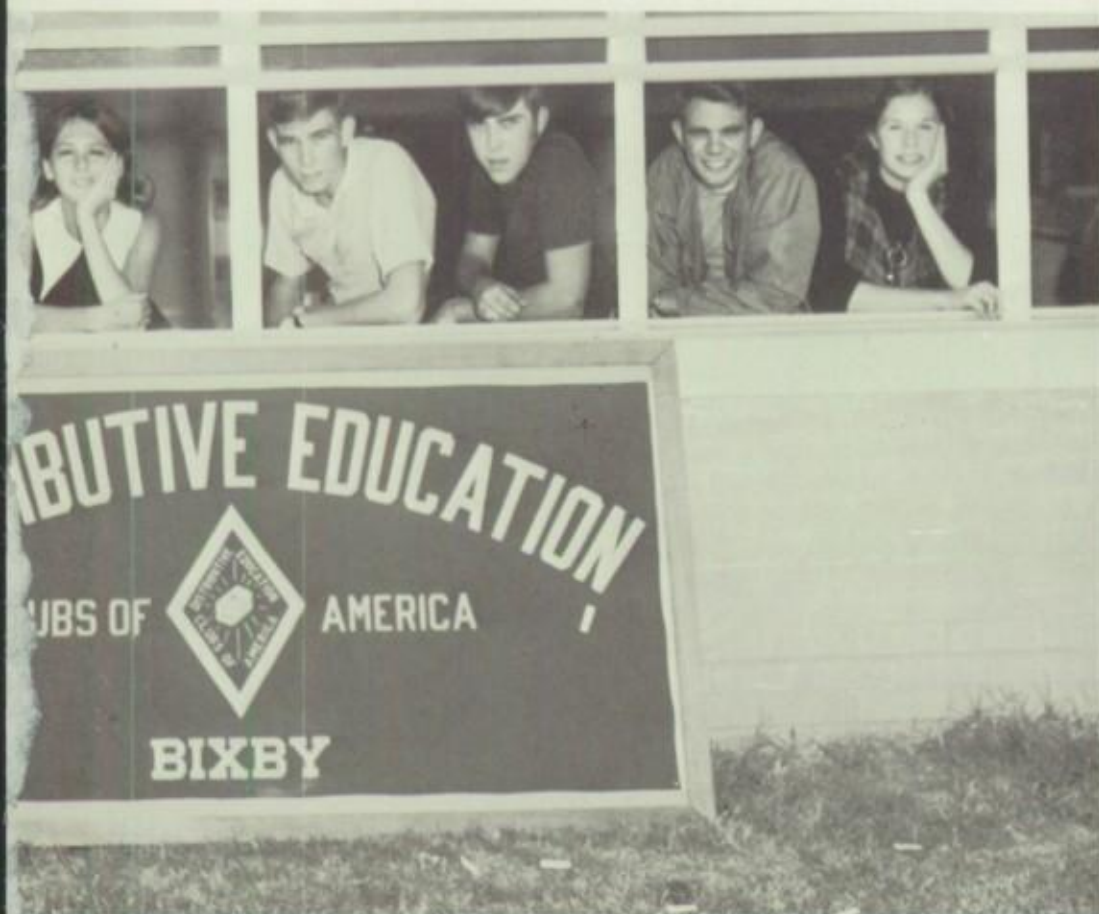

Jubilant over their OIPA award for the '69 Spartan, sponsor Mrs. Dorothy Wood, editor-in-chief Debby Williamson, and advertising editor Stanley Carr stand outside the Union Building at Oklahoma University.

Home Economics

Life Long Career

Freshman interior decorators Karen Hill, Debbie Winsett, and Donna Smith work with samples of carpet, drapery materials, paneling and tile.

Home Economics offered family living which included basic wardrobe planning and care for the entire family. Under the leadership of Mrs. Martin and Miss Bernhardt the door to new skills was opened in cooking, sewing, and domestic situations. Although the words "Home Ec" brought to mind sewing and cooking, the image was shattered this year by studying pre-natal care, family living and everyday problems.

Happy homemakers - Pame Seabolt, LeAnna Cole, and Diana Gilpatrick prepare a family dinner.

Sandy Geiger leads a panel discussion while Martha Trapp, Faye Bruner and Jo Ellen Watkins listen and observe.

Vo Ag Boys Like Shop

Billy Cartwright looks over a tractor and thinks of the day that he will be a master mechanic.

Ray Allen finds pushing a lawn mower is easier than making repairs.

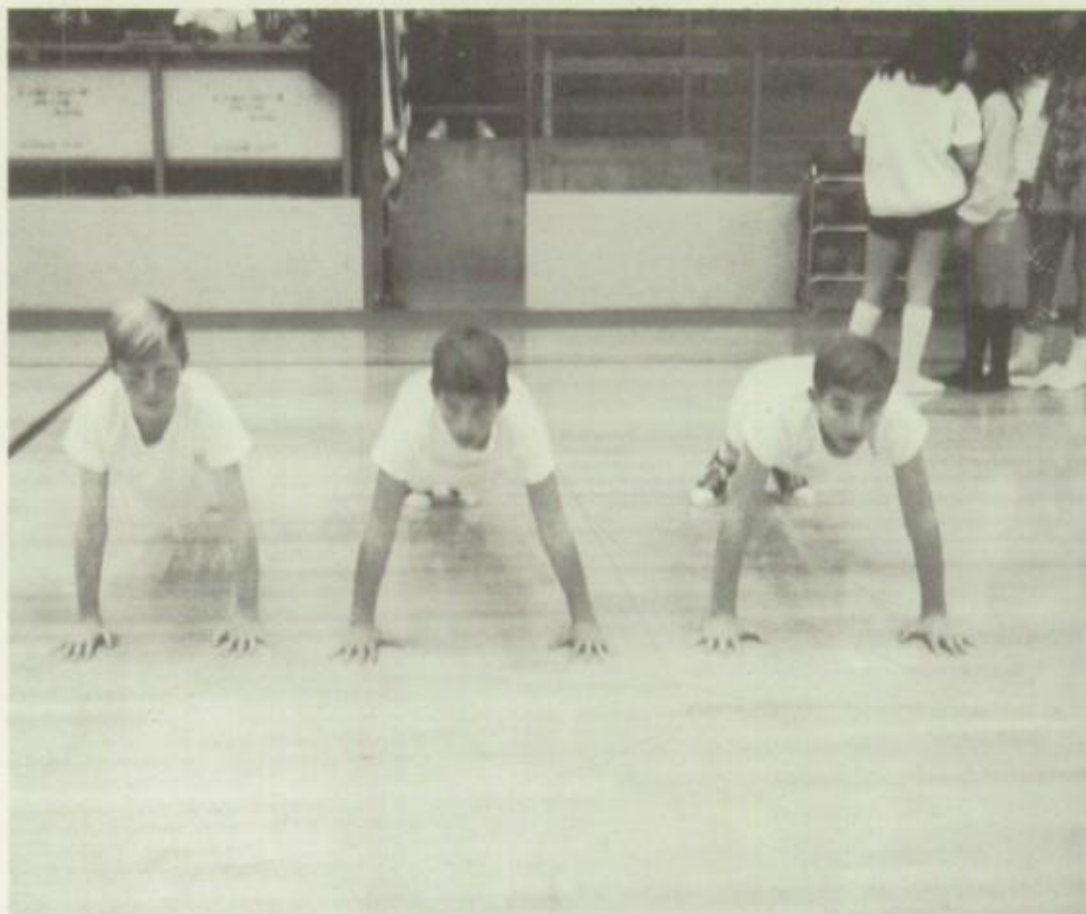

"Doc" Jones teaches Mike Adams, Pat Christiansen, Boyd Abbott, Kenny Hall, and John Gilmore the welders' art.

Through the combined efforts of Henry and Marvin Jones, boys from the 9th grade through the 12th were taught many phases of agriculture. During the year the boys were taught to weld, how to overhaul small engines, and the use of the cutting torch. They experimented with grafting pecan trees, learned the different types of grasses and each took part in his own project.

Coordination Emphasized in Phys Ed

The physical education classes experienced a dynamic change. Both boys and girls learned new physical skills. Physical and mental coordination were emphasized along with the development of athletic skills. Group participation was encouraged. Contests were held to promote sportsmanship. Each individual participated in gymnastics.

*Push ups are a part of boys every morning exercises.

Drivers Ed Kids Get Restricted Licenses

Taking the wheel of an automobile for perhaps the first time, BHS students were again offered Driver's Education. After thoroughly studying the driver's manual in the classroom, the eager students were introduced, to the car and the task of learning to operate it. Experience and careful instruction yielded skillful drivers.

Los Ninos, the children, was organized by the members of the second year Spanish class. Once a month, they journey to Tulsa to enjoy dinner, each time going to a different restaurant. At La Casa Monterrey, they were entertained by a strolling minstrel from Monterrey. From the Los Ninos Club, Ronnie North, Georgeanna Brown, Susannah Hair, Vicki Montgonery, Kathy Morris, Carol Brown, and David Reeder have visited Mexico City for a week. They traveled on the "Mexican Fun Train" with 300 students from all over Oklahoma.

Onward . . .

From the opening day of fall practice Bixby fans and students alike knew that this would be the year of the Spartans.

But first in line would be almighty Okmulgee. The Okmulgee Bulldogs dealt the Spartans a tough pill to swallow, as they rolled over the Spartans with a 27-0 victory.

The next week the Spartans bounced back with a 49-0 drubbing of the Coweta Tigers.

With their senior-studded ballclub the Spartans handed defeats to everyone of their conference opponents. Class A powers Jenks, Wagoner and Owasso also fell victim to the Big Red.

The highlight of regular season play was the battle with arch-rivals the Jenks Trojans. Who can forget the halftime lead of 20 points for the Spartans, when quarterback Robert Cox was injured and not allowed to play the second half, only to have the Trojans score 14 points and be in scoring position at the final buzzer.

This year's success was marked by the placing of 9 players on the all-conference roster, 1 on the first team all-state, 2 on the second squad and 10 on the honorable mention list.

On the All-Conference squad were Butch Davis, Bobby Hall, Steve Braselton, Rick Ross, Brian Jones, Larry Allen, Danny Cox, John Randolph, and Robert Cox.

Butch Davis was able to make the first team All-State squad, Robert Cox and Danny Cox on the back up squad and Bobby Hall received honorable mention.

Next year's outlook is good but this year's record will be hard to match.

and connects with David Plisco for another crucial six pointer.

Butch Davis breaks through the tough Owasso line for needed yardage.

Spartan end, Larry Allen finds the going tough after hauling in a wild pass against Owasso.

Spartans Go to State!!!

Butch Davis gains important yardage against Stroud as Bobby Hall blocks.

Coach Paul Davis of Bixby.

Coach Bert Graham of Stroud.

It was the dream of a lifetime come true for the Spartans; to get to play in the State Class B Championship. But that dream was shattered by the hand of the Stroud Tigers. Led by the Oklahoma High School Player of the year, Grant Burget, they dealt the Spartans a 32-12 loss. But left with them was many a wonderful memory of sweet victories and disappointing losses.

LEFT - A look of anxiety, a moment of nervous prayer, exemplify the emotions at a state championship game.
